About Forsters

Forsters is a Mayfair-based law firm which delivers exceptional legal results to its clients who are principally from the real estate and private wealth sectors. Whatever our client's objectives, we take a collaborative approach to find solutions tailored to the client's specific needs. We believe our engaged and friendly manner, combined with the delivery of concise, clear and commercially led advice helps to build long lasting relationships with our clients.

Forsters takes its name from John Forster, who in the 19th century was one of the first of partners in a firm of solicitors which more than 200 years later became Frere Cholmeley Bischoff. Forsters was founded in 1998 by ten partners from Frere Cholmeley Bischoff whose aim was to establish a smaller firm which would blend the skills of City trained lawyers with the kind of personal service and attention to clients often missing from larger firms.

Mayfair, being at the heart of the real estate and private wealth industries was a natural home for the new firm and Forsters began in 1998 with 100 people based in offices in Grosvenor Street. Being in Mayfair close to where our clients work and developing strong links with fellow professionals in the real estate and private wealth markets has always been important to us.

In 2005 the need for more space saw Forsters move to Hill Street where it remains today. Further expansion since 2010 has seen numbers rise above 300 and now the firm is housed in three adjacent buildings. We remain firmly committed to our Hill Street home and are proud to be the largest law firm in Mayfair.
